

House Passes National Affordable Housing Trust Fund Act

On October 10, the House of Representatives passed H. R. 2895, the National Affordable Housing Trust Fund Act of 2007. The bill passed on a vote of 264-148, with 41 Republicans joining all Democrats in support of the bill. The bill was introduced on June 28 by House Committee on Financial Services Chair Barney Frank (D-MA) with 16 bipartisan co-sponsors.

House Financial Services Subcommittee on Housing and Community Opportunity Chair Maxine Waters (D-CA) said that the bill targets its resources where the need is the greatest. "It has been 17 years since the federal government last enacted a major housing program," Mrs. Waters said. "The time has long since passed to enact another one."

Representative Christopher Shays (R-CT), an original co-sponsor to the bill, said "The construction of new housing is overdue. We cannot push the problem away. Without federal assistance, we'll have a perpetual problem of people paying 50, 60, 70 percent of their incomes on housing." This legislation, Mr. Shays said, "addresses the problem in a creative way" and that "the results will be directly and quickly realized in our communities."

House Speaker Nancy Pelosi (D-CA) issued a statement after the House passed the bill saying, "The bill will assist cities and states address the most urgent affordable housing needs in their communities while keeping our promise of fiscal responsibility to

Trust Fund Campaign Moves to Senate

Building on its success in passing legislation to establish and fund a national housing trust fund out of the U. S. House of Representatives (see Memo, 10/12, 9/21, and 5/25), the National Housing Trust Fund Campaign has turned its attention to the U. S. Senate. A companion bill to H. R. 2895, the National Affordable Housing Trust Fund Act of 2007, has been drafted and is in circulation among Senators who are considering becoming original co-sponsors.

The National Housing Trust Fund Campaign is committed to bipartisan co-sponsorship of the Senate bill at introduction, replicating the bipartisan support of the House bill. Housing advocates in key states are meeting and communicating with their Senators about the housing needs in their states, how the national housing trust fund would help, and requesting that they agree to be original cosponsors. The campaign expects to have a bill

Working Families Housing Report

A new working families report from the National Housing Conference finds that since the 1990s critical housing needs worsened in 27 of 31 metro areas. The Housing Landscape for America's Working Families 2007, released on August 30, looks at the trend in severe housing cost burden and other critical housing problems over the past two decades utilizing the American Housing Survey (AHS). While a number of recent studies have looked at trends in the national data, this report stands out by emphasizing trends in the 31 metro areas surveyed as part of AHS, also comparing conditions in suburban and urban areas within these areas. Along with finding that conditions worsened in most areas surveyed, the report also indicates that the incidence of critical housing needs among working families was similar in suburban areas and the urban cores most often associated with housing problems.

As in past working families reports, data are presented for a variety of households but the focus is on working families, or households with at least one member working the equivalent of a full-time job and earning at least the annual minimum wage of $10,712, but no more than 120% of the median income in their area.

Along with a published report, the report's website provides a summary of the key findings as well as metropolitan area rankings and profiles. The report can be found here: www.nhc.org/pdf/pub\_landscape2007\_08\_07.pdf. ■

Preserving Rural Rental Properties

The Summer 2007 edition of Rural Voices, the Housing Assistance Council's magazine, is devoted entirely to rural rental housing preservation successes and challenges. "More Than Housing At Stake" contains articles that review preservation policy, consider barriers and opportunities, report on USDA's multifamily preservation initiative and summarize state preservation activities.

Preventing Homelessness

A number of articles on prevention of homelessness has been published in the August 2007 edition of the Journal of Primary Prevention. One article focuses on the role of discharge planning. Assessment and treatment, planning for discharge, and service coordination and integration are the three primary strategies outlined to help prevent homelessness among those with special needs leaving an institutional setting and returning to the community. This study also looks at innovative strategies used in various ten year plans and provides recommendations for future discharge planning strategies.

Be an Advocate to End Homelessness: Attend Housing Action Illinois' Annual Meeting

Housing Action Illinois' Annual Meeting provides an opportunity for education, advocacy, and networking. A significant amount of this year's meeting will be focused on Housing Action's efforts to increase state resources to end homelessness.

The Annual Meeting will be held between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. on Thursday, November 15 at the Abraham Lincoln Hotel, 701 E Adams Street in Springfield. The meeting is free to Housing Action Illinois members. Lunch will be provided.

At one morning session, "Be an Advocate to End Homelessness!", attendees will finalize Housing Action's advocacy and organizing plan for the coming year to increase funding for the State Emergency Food and

housingactionillinois

Shelter Program. Working with providers around the state, Housing Action was able to secure a 6% budget increase for the program in the fiscal year 2008 budget—the first increase in more than 5 years.

An afternoon session, "Your Role in our 2008 Advocacy Agenda", will highlight the ways members and allies supported Housing Action's work in 2007 and present opportunities to get involved in 2008.

In addition to the advocacy sessions, training sessions will be offered in the areas of housing development, and housing counseling.

Housing Action's membership fees are on a sliding scale from $35 to $300 based on your organization's budget and groups can always ask for a membership fee waiver.

Making the Connection

Public Benefits and Incarceration

Contributor: Kathryn Nelson

The authors of this column welcome your comments and questions. See contact information at the end of the article.

First of all I want to say how much I enjoyed being at this year's Peer to Peer conference in Springfield. It was great having the opportunity to see many of you. While at the conference, I had the chance to attend a few of the consumer panels. One issue that was raised during the panels was the impact incarceration has on so many aspects of an individual's life, and that often individuals continue to "serve time" after release through restrictive policies and limited access to services. I want to use the next few columns to discuss the impact incarceration has on public benefits, as well as to let you know about some initiatives targeted to ex-offenders.

Most of us are aware that when an individual is incarcerated, most public benefits are stopped. Following is what you can reasonably expect to happen, but remember there are always exceptions to every rule, so make sure you contact the agencies that issue the benefits whenever you are in doubt.

Social Security and Supplemental Security Income

If your client is arrested and awaiting trial, regular Social Security benefits will not be stopped. These benefits usually continue until the individual is actually convicted, and will be incarcerated for more than 30 continuous days. The 30 day period can consist of partial months and cross over two calendar months. Since the benefits are only suspended, upon release, the benefits are able to be re-instated the month after the month of release. For example, John is released in October; benefits could be received as early as November. Restarting benefits can be facilitated through pre-release agreements between the area jail/prison and Social Security. With the pre-release process the re-instatement process can begin 30 days prior to the release. The pre-release agreements can be formal, or informal. If a formal written agreement exists between the prison/jail Social Security is able to provide training as well as an internal contact to facilitate the re-instatement process. Note: benefits to dependents taxpayers with no new deficit spending.”

House Trust Fund

The White House issued a statement of administration policy on the bill on October 9, saying, "... if H. R. 2895 were presented to the President, his senior advisors would recommend that he veto the bill." The statement called the national housing trust fund "largely redundant" of the HOME program, said that Federal Housing Administration (FHA) receipts being funneled into the trust fund had already been claimed and that the bill would create an "undue and counterproductive reliance on Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac by tying the potentially unlimited growth of an Affordable Housing Trust Fund to the annual amount of the enterprises' mortgage business."

H. R. 2895 would establish a national housing trust fund with dedicated, off-budget revenue sources to fund the production, preservation and rehabilitation of 1.5 million homes over the next 10 years. Until the fund reaches $2 billion annually, not less than 75 percent of the resources must provide housing affordable to families with extremely low incomes, below 30 percent of area median income, or the poverty line income adjusted for family introduced before the 2007 session of the 110th Congress closes.

The draft Senate bill includes the two dedicated funding sources that are in the House bill, so advocates are also working on the legislation that will create two sources, FHA reform and GSE regulatory reform. The Senate Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs has approved an FHA modernization bill, but it does not provide for new FHA revenues to be funneled into a National Affordable Housing Trust Fund. However, Senator Christopher Dodd (D-CT), committee size. And, at least 30 percent of the housing must be affordable to families with incomes at or below the equivalent of the federal SSI eligibility income, and not less than 10 percent of the resources must serve households with income between 50 percent and 60 percent of area median. In the HOME program, up to 90 percent of resources can be used to serve households with incomes up to 60 percent of area median.

For years that the fund has a value of more than $2 billion, up to 25 percent of the resources can be used to meet the affordable housing needs of families with incomes up to 80 percent of area median provided that the other targeting requirements outlined above are met.

The House has already passed two funding sources for the housing trust fund, H. R. 1427, the Government Sponsored Enterprises (GSE) reform bill, and H. R. 1852, the Federal Housing Administration modernization bill. Together, these sources would pump about $800 million to $1 billion a year into the housing trust fund.

The National Housing Trust Fund (NHTF) Campaign reached this critical milestone because of the hard work of thousands of low income housing advocates to educate elected officials chair, said that he would support adding this funding source to the FHA bill.

Senate Republicans have introduced a GSE reform bill, S. 1100, the Federal Housing Enterprise Regulatory Reform Act, but it does not include an Affordable Housing Fund. It has not been considered in the Senate Banking Committee. The Democratic bill in development is expected to contain the Affordable Housing Fund.

about the critical shortage of affordable housing for the lowest income people in our country. The strong bipartisan vote in the House provides great momentum going into the Senate. ## CBPP: Vouchers at Risk in 2008

The Center on Budget and Policy Priorities has released a report analyzing how the different funding bills or a Presidential veto could effect the “Section 8” Housing Choice Voucher Program. The President’s budget for fiscal year 2008 would fail to renew 80,000 housing vouchers. The President has said he will veto any appropriations bill that exceeds the discretionary spending he proposed in his budget. The current House appropriations bill would fail to renew 55,000 vouchers, but the Senate version would renew all housing vouchers used in 2007.

Key Findings:

- ❑ Housing agencies began recently to assist more low-income families, reversing somewhat the loss of 150,000 Section 8 vouchers during 2004-2006.
- ❑ The President’s budget for fiscal year 2008 would fail to renew 80,000 housing vouchers likely to be used by families in 2007, and the House appropriations bill would fail to renew 55,000 vouchers. In contrast, the Senate bill would fund all vouchers in use in 2007.
- ❑ The potential cuts under the House bill are due primarily to the less efficient formula it uses to allocate voucher funding among housing agencies, which fails to account for recent increases in voucher use. The House bill also provides less funding for vouchers than the Senate bill. Both bills provide more than the President.

- ❑ Because the House bill does not fully fund its voucher formula, agencies would receive a pro rata reduction in renewal funding of about 3 percent. As a result, agency funding would be insufficient to keep pace with inflation in rents and utility costs, and one-quarter of agencies would receive less funding in 2008 than in 2007.
- ❑ The Senate funding formula is more cost-effective: for every given dollar of renewal funding allocated by Congress, the Senate formula would renew more vouchers than the formula prescribed by the House bill. The Senate bill also would encourage agencies to use available funds to assist more families. In contrast, the House bill would adversely affect agencies that improved their performance in 2007 and discourage agencies from performing better in 2008.

Incarceration

are not be affected by incarceration of the primary wage earner.

When incarcerated, SSI benefits are suspended if incarceration (even while pending trial and not yet convicted) is less than one year, and terminated if incarcerated for over a year. If the benefits are suspended, they can usually be re-instated the month after the month of release. Prior to restarting benefits, Social Security will need to assess the individual’s financial status to ensure he remains income and asset eligible. (Remember SSI is a needs based program, which is why the financial reassessment has to be done.) If the SSI benefits have been terminated, the process can take a few months. Either way, it is best to have established a pre-release process. In instances benefits are terminated, this process will allow the inmate to begin to plan to reapply for SSI a few months before the planned release date.

Medicare

While incarcerated, Medicare Part A continues, however, to keep the supplemental programs (Part B or D), the inmate needs to continue paying the premiums that are charged. Since the premiums are typically deducted from the monthly benefit, and the benefit is suspended or terminated, the inmate will need to contact Social Security to set up a payment plan. If he does not do this, or he is not able to make the payments, Part B and D will terminate. If coverage ends due to premiums not being paid, re-enrollment can only occur at the next General Enrollment Period which is January through March each year. At the time of enrollment any unpaid past-due premiums have to be paid (so if incarceration is for 2 years, and the inmate is released in September, he has to wait to January to enroll and when he enrolls, he will owe premiums for the past 2 years 4 months)

If the Medicare card is lost the inmate can call 1-800-772-1213 to request a letter showing proof of coverage until the card can be replaced. To apply for a new one, the individual can do this at www.ssa.gov and a new card will be sent in 30 days.

VA Benefits

Benefits are not reduced if a veteran receiving Veterans Compensation (a benefit which is based on injury that occurred while in service), is convicted of a misdemeanor. If the veteran is convicted of a felony, he continues to receive full benefits for up to 60 days after conviction, and on the 61st day of incarceration benefits are reduced. If the benefit was based on a rating above 10%, the benefit is reduced to the 10% amount. If the rating was 10% the payment will be half the benefit for a full 10% rating. A reduced benefit amount is paid if convicted of a felony or the incarceration will exceed 12 months. If family benefits are being issued, the benefit can continue to be received by the family. A request needs to be made to the VA to have the compensation apportioned for the family members.

If the veteran is receiving a Veterans Pension benefit, which is based on a disability that is not service connected, and is convicted either of a felony or misdemeanor, the benefit terminates after 60 days of incarceration. Dependents are able to request that the pension benefit be apportioned to meet their needs if the veteran is incarcerated.

Compensation or pension benefits can be resumed effective the date of release from incarceration, as long as the Department of Veterans Affairs is notified of the release within at least 1 year following the release. If the request to re-instate is received after 1 year, benefits are issued from the date of the application. The VA may need to do a disability review to assess if the disability has improved.

VA medical coverage does not end when a veteran is incarcerated, however, the VA does not provide care to the inmate during the incarceration. Once the inmate is released, he is immediately eligible. He needs to contact the VA health facility he will use once released. In addition the VA has a program called Healthcare for the Reentry of Veterans (HCRV) and liaisons are being established to work with incarcerated veterans. If you want to find out who the representative is for your area, go to www1.va.gov/homeless/page.cfm?pg=39. Services include:

- ❑ Outreach and pre-release assessments services
- ❑ Referrals and linkages to medical, psychiatric, and social services, including employment services
- ❑ Short term case management assistance

State Benefits

If an individual is receiving state issued benefits (Food Stamps, TANF, Medicaid, cash help as Aged, Blind or disabled),

- ❑ Benefits will stop if incarcerated on the first day of the fiscal month and the incarceration continues through the last day of the fiscal month
- ❑ Continue will continue for the month, if the inmate is eligible on the first day of the fiscal month.

Note: a Fiscal Month is not a calendar month. If an individual is receiving medical, or cash due to being Aged, Blind or Disabled (AABD) the fiscal month is the 1st through the last day of month. If the person is receiving TANF or Food Stamps and his last name begins with an A through GH the fiscal month is 1st through the last day of the month, and if GI through Z the fiscal month is the 16th through 15th of next month. Here is an example of what this means: Mary Z., who receives TANF is picked up and incarcerated for shoplifting on November 18th. Mary is held until December 14th when her family is able to post bond. Since Mary was not incarcerated on the 16th (the first day of her fiscal month), and she is released before the 16th of the next month, her TANF benefit should not be stopped or reduced.

The Illinois Department of Corrections has established a pre-release protocol with IDHS and will help to file applications for benefits up to 30 days prior to release. Jails can also work with the area local office to establish agreements with each local office to facilitate applications at discharge.
